Municipalities' Poor Roads.

The article printed elsewhere in this paper of the observation of the editor of Good Roads' Magazine should be read by every citizen. Bennington claims that the article refers to that village. It might well do so, and also to Rutland, to Barre and many others of the cities and larger towns of Vermont and other states in New England. The fact is unexplainable but it is nevertheless a fact that the poorest roadways in Vermont are to be found within the incorporated cities and villages. This despite the fact that more money is expended for streets in municipalities than in any of the country towns. Rutland City in the last 25 years has expended at least $400,000 on its streets and outside of the two strips of vitrified brick paving laid in cement it has little to show for all this immense expenditure. Happily, however, this city is finally on the right track in highway improvement and if it maintains its policy of the past two years in building such stretches of brick paving as it can each year in an incredibly short time the entire business district at least will be as creditably paved as it is now attractively lighted.—Rutland News.

One Good Result.

"Do you think the income tax is a good thing?" "As an economic measure, I am not prepared to say. But I do know that it stopped a lot of bragging."

TALK OF THE TOWN

New silk waists at Abbott's.

D. E. McCleary was a business caller in Waterbury to-day.

C. A. Perrott returned this forenoon to his home in Hanover, N. H., after spending several days in the city on business.

"The Iron Claw" and "Gloria's Romance" at the Bijou to-morrow. Attend the matinee and avoid the evening rush.—adv.

Miss Fay Anderson, who has been visiting friends on Brook street during the past ten days, returned to her home in St. Albans this morning.

Representative Stanley C. Wilson, who, with Mrs. Wilson, has been passing a few days in the city, left for St. Albans yesterday on a business trip.

Mrs. P. E. McNulty of North Main street left the city last night for Springfield, Mass., where she is making a visit of several days with relatives.

F. W. Fielding, who has been employed in Chelsea and Washington during the past few weeks, returned to Chelsea last night after visiting friends in the city.

Mrs. Leon McAllister of Williamstown returned to her home last night after spending a few days in Barre while her husband is under treatment at the Barre City hospital.

Algot Knutson, who recently returned from Proctor, is detained at his home on South Main street by an attack of bronchitis. Mr. Knutson is employed at the Woolworth store.

A fine lot of registered Jerseys, as well as some extra good grades, to be sold at the Harlie Whitecomb auction to-morrow. See adv. page 7. D. A. Perry, auctioneer.—adv.

E. L. Chesser, manager of the Singer Sewing Machine Co. in this state, returned to his home in Burlington to-day, after spending several days in the city on business in connection with the company.

Rev. Charles A. Boyd, secretary of the Vermont Sunday School association, who assisted in a training school session for Sunday school workers here Tuesday, returned yesterday to his home in Burlington.

A party consisting of Charles Conner, Dan Peduzzi, J. Maloney and William Milne, left yesterday for Worcester, where they will spend about three weeks on a hunting expedition along Worcester mountain.

Committees appointed recently by the Barre Entertainment association, which was formed for the purpose of entertaining the National Cemetery Superintendents' association next summer, met in the superintendent's office at city hall Tuesday evening and discussed tentative plans for the program. At a second meeting of the committees to be held in the near future several important reports will be received.

Supt. Alex Hanton of the city cemetery is in receipt of another lot of shrubbery, the gift this time being from Supt. Ross of the Newton, Mass., cemetery. Only recently a consignment of shrubs was presented Supt. Hanton for Hope cemetery by Supt. Scroggie of Mount Auburn cemetery, Cambridge, Mass. If the snow does not disappear before the ground freezes, Mr. Hanton will uncover the earth and set out the shrubbery.

George Karkanedes, who has been in the fruit business in Barre and Montpelier during the past summer, has closed out his business in the two cities and left last night for Norwich, Conn., to join with his little son, to join Mrs. Karkanedes, who went to Norwich a little over a week ago. Mr. Karkanedes will start a fruit business in Norwich until another spring, when he will return to Barre and resume his trade here.

Barre granite manufacturers, quarrymen and all others who are interested in the nation-wide campaign of advertising the native stone are to meet in manufacturers' hall Wednesday evening, Nov. 22, to discuss plans for the 1917 campaign. There is a feeling firmly grounded among a majority of the granite producers that the campaign should be carried on along the same lines that marked the launching of the present campaign early in the year. Speakers from Boston and Chicago who are thoroughly conversant with the advertising field are to be present to participate in the conference.

Barre, East Barre and Montpelier Red Men, comprising Iroquois, Wuchosen and Sioux tribes, are to hold their annual district tribe in the log house of Wuchosen tribe on the evening of Dec. 8. It is planned to have several of the grand lodge officers present and if the vigilance of the East Barre hunters is rewarded there will be plenty of venison along with the corn. A number of candidates are getting ready to take their degrees in the Cold Moon and if the class is large enough the degree will be conferred at the district meeting. A joint committee with Red Men from each tribe is attending to the preliminary details of the big get-together.

Commentaries on the national advertising campaign launched this year by Barre granite manufacturers and quarrymen form the basis of an interesting editorial in the current issue of Printers' Ink, a journal devoted to the advertising field. The commentaries were contributed by Sec. H. P. Hinman of the manufacturers' association at the request of the editors, who quote at length his description of methods used in handling consumers' inquiries received at the local end of the campaign. Space for the editorial deductions from the secretary's remarks is given a leading position at the head of the editorial column in the recognized organ of advertising men throughout the United States.

TALK OF THE TOWN

New coats at Abbott's.

A regular meeting of R. B. Crandall post, No. 56, G. A. R., will be held in the post rooms at city hall Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock. A large attendance is requested.

Mrs. Etta Van Rondo of Saranac, N. Y., arrived in the city last evening, having been called here by the death of her mother, Mrs. Paul Wilford of South Main street, who passed away Tuesday. John Wilford of Plainfield, Ia., a son of the deceased, is expected to arrive in the city to-morrow. The funeral will be held at the house Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Miss Edwards, demonstrator for the company handling the Round Oak range, arrived in Barre yesterday and will remain in the city during the remainder of the week, giving lectures and demonstrating the Round Oak range in cooking. The range which Miss Edwards will use is in the display window at the Averill hardware store. She has a set of 40 cards which give a complete detail of the range and has a telephone announcer installed, so as to give suggestions to the people on the street as she is giving her card lecture. The announcer has a megaphone attachment on the outside of the building, so as to throw the voice very plainly to all the outside listeners.
